About us

It all began back in 2005 when I was in Italy working with a jewellery collection. Little did I expect that my life was about to take a different turn. Outside my native Sweden, I started to look at my comfortable wooden clogs in a new light. Clogs, with their characteristic shape and the tradition of Swedish craftsmanship suddenly seemed exotic and full of possibilities. I started to think about decorating them, using new materials and techniques, embossing the leather, and producing different styles and colours.

I had no idea how timely I was – clogs were about to have a major revival.

Today Calou has developed into an international shoe company. While our roots are still firmly in the Swedish clog tradition and genuine craftsmanship, we have gone on to include clog boots, and even high heeled clogs in our collections. All are made in cushioned, flexible materials which make our shoes incredibly comfortable to wear.

We are passionate about our clogs! And we hope you'll be as happy in them as we are.

Warm regards
